"Sherlock Holmes and the Art of Mystery Writing"

DATE: October 18
TIME: 6:00 – 7:00 PM
VENUE: Fort Moultrie Visitor Center
1214 Middle St. Sullivan's Island

Have you wondered if you could write a mystery or thriller? Could you conceive of an intricate plot? Write a first page that commands the reader's interest? Develop engaging characters? Plant clues so deftly that the reader doesn't piece them together until the final "Aha!"?

Come hear a master of the mystery and thriller genre, author Leonard Goldberg M.D., talk about the art of mystery writing and his newest book, A Study in Treason: A Daughter of Sherlock Holmes Mystery (2018, St. Martin's Press). This is the second book in his new mystery series featuring the daughter of Sherlock Holmes who is heir to her father's unique talent for deduction.

A highly engaging speaker, Dr. Goldberg is the author of bestselling and award-winning mysteries that have been translated into a dozen languages and selected by the Book of the Month Club and The Mystery Guild. They have been featured as People magazine's "Page-Turner of the Week" and optioned for development for motion picture and television projects

Dr. Goldberg is a native of Charleston who grew up spending summers on Sullivan's Island. He authored a series of medical thrillers written during his medical career as clinical professor and physician at UCLA. He currently lives on Sullivan's Island.

This event is free and open to the public.
